Learning Journey to the Singapore Science Centre

On the day of our learning journey, I was very excited. My mother gave me a healthy snack for breakfast. After that, my father drove my sister and I to school. In school, I walked to the school hall and read my storybook.

Once my classmates and I went on the bus, my classmates started talking in the bus. Once the bus reached the Science Centre, my classmates and I alighted from the bus and waited for the parent helper to alight the bus. We had to wait for thirty minutes because it was too early. After thirty minutes, we could go in! “Yay!” I exclaimed. My classmates and I were so excited.

In the Science Centre, we had to climb up a lot of stairs. Once we were in the Science laboratory, I remembered that Mr. Chew said that we will be learning about the life in a shell. In the laboratory, we learnt about snails and hermit crabs. At the end of the lesson in the laboratory, the teacher in the laboratory taught us how to fold a paper snail.

I like the Science Centre very much. I wish that I could go there again.

A Time When I Was Lost

I got lost when I was five years old. I was in Bedok Mall with my parents. A toy Godzilla caught my eye. I went to take a closer look at it. When I turned around, my mother was nowhere to be found! I was scared. I started to tremble. I kept shouting. Finally, my father heard my cries. I ran to him and hugged him. I felt relieved. I promised never to wander off again.

A Time When I Lost Something

One afternoon, I asked my brother for help to make a machine that could scan everywhere in my bedroom. While making it, I could not find the screw. I checked my toolbox, it was not in there. I lost a very tiny screw. I felt worried. It was the most important screw. I asked my brother to help me. My brother and I searched everywhere but still could not find it. I gave up! Finally, we found it under my bed. I felt happy because I could finally finish making my robot. I learnt that I must always keep screws in a toolbox.

A Problem I Had

I vomited at my student care a few months ago. I had a strange feeling in my stomach. I felt uneasy. I did not solve the problem because I did not know what to do. I asked my student care teachers for help. They applied oil on my belly. I rested on the bean bag. I was worried but I was feeling better. I learnt that I should always ask for help.

A Memorable Birthday Celebration

Last week was my birthday. My father ordered a chocolate cake for me.

Just as my mother was about to put the cake into the fridge, she dropped it. “Ah!” my mother screamed. “Oh dear, what should we do?” my father asked.

My mother quickly drove to the nearby bakery and bought another cake. As quick as a flash, she was back.

We celebrated my birthday happily.

My Favourite Occupation

My favourite occupation is a zookeeper. I like the clothes because of the panda badge. I also like the way they train the animals for the animal show. Their job is to make sure that the animals are healthy. They also must be responsible because they have to feed the animals every day. They work at the zoo. They also have a walkie-talkie to talk over far distances.

A Rainy Day

I was walking home from school. It was a nice, sunny day. Suddenly, the wind blew and the clouds turned grey. I realized it was going to rain. I was right! Not long after that, it started to drizzle. Soon after, it rained heavily.

I panicked and searched my bag frantically. I only found a newspaper. I immediately took it out and put it over my head trying to keep myself dry. I ran as fast as I could, trying to find the nearest shelter. Unfortunately, there was no shelter nearby. As a result, I was soaking wet.

I thought to myself, if only I have an umbrella in my bag, this would not have happened to me. As soon as I reached home, I cleaned myself and unpacked my backpack. I took out all my wet books to dry them near the fan. Guess what? There! Between my books, I found a soaked umbrella. Oh, silly me!

My Favourite Sea Creature

My favourite sea creature is the blue whale.

The blue whale is a type of whale species and being very alike to the whale shark, it is very gentle and has a kind character. It eats small fish and prawns although it has a big stomach and mouth.

Due to endless hunting, the blue whale became a very rare species as it is endangered and now it is very difficult to be found. It is such a sad story.

However, if one who really adores whales, he must be aware of the lives of the whales.

Letter Writing – Flat Stanley

Dear Clareen,

How are you? I hope you are fine. Flat Stanley and I visited a Science teacher last week. We learned many things about what Science teachers do at a polytechnic.

The Science teacher works eight hours a day. She usually wears a laboratory coat when she is teaching her students in the Science laboratory. As a Science teacher, she teaches students about microbes such as bacteria, viruses and fungi. She also teaches students about how microbes can cause diseases in humans and how medicines can be used to kill them. The tools a Science teacher uses are her laptop, projector, markers and dusters when she teaches in class. She uses microscope and bunsen burner when she works in a laboratory.

Flat Stanley and I really had a good time learning about the Science teacher. That is all for now. I hope to hear from you soon! Bye!

Best wishes,

Enzo

A Careless Act

It was a sunny Friday afternoon. Mrs Lee was in the living room ironing the clothes. Just then, the telephone rang. She swiftly ran to the telephone and answered it. "Hello!" she exclaimed.

Little did she know what was about to unfold. While Mrs Lee was talking, she did not realise that she had carelessly left the iron on the shirt. Sometime later, Mrs Lee noticed something was amiss. Then, she wanted to continue ironing the clothes. When she went to the ironing board, a wave of panic swept over her. She had left the iron on the shirt and the shirt was burnt! Mrs Lee immediately moved the iron away. She was upset about her careless act.

Then, Mrs Lee's son, Max, came home. He saw that his favourite shirt was burnt. He was very sad. His mother comforted him and promised to help him buy a similar shirt. Mrs Lee promised to be more careful in future. After hearing that, Max felt better.

A Dangerous Encounter

One afternoon, Sam and Sue went to their farm to feed their pet chicken. They were excited as it was the first time they went without their father.

As they reached the chicken coop, they shockingly realised that there was no sign of any chicken. Worried and in total disbelief, Sam and Sue immediately looked around to find traces of their pet chicken. "Look, Sue. I see some feathers," Sam pointed out. Sue replied, "Let's follow the trail of feathers and see if we can locate the chicken!"

Both Sam and Sue wasted no time and ran hurriedly down the trail of feathers. Suddenly, Sue came to a halt and gasped, "Did you hear a faint rattling sound?" Sam also froze in his tracks and muttered, "Oh no! Could it be..."

They looked over the bushes and could not believe their eyes. A huge brown rattlesnake was swallowing their pet chicken alive! Both of them were dumbfounded and felt very helpless. There was no way they could rescue their pet chicken as they were no match for the rattlesnake. As soon as the snake swallowed the entire chicken, it slowly slithered away and escaped the farm through a hole in the fence.

Although Sam and Sue were very upset, they quickly rushed back and informed their father about the incident. Their father was shocked and exclaimed, "That was extremely dangerous! Fortunately, the two of you were not hurt." He heaved a sigh of relief and hugged them tightly. He added, "Let's alert the snake-catchers. Meanwhile, I'll mend the hole in the fence to prevent any more snakes from entering our farm!" Sam and Sue nodded their heads in agreement and shuddered at the thought of their dangerous encounter.

A Dangerous Encounter

Last Friday, Ryder and Lily were looking for their missing chicken at their farm.

They suddenly heard something moving and a faint hissing noise in the bushes. “Was it their chicken?” they thought. They quickly walked to the bushes. When Lily got there, she screamed. “What’s the matter?” asked Ryder. “A... snake... coil... chicken...” spluttered Lily.

There was a big python behind the bushes, and it was coiling around the chicken. In a blink of an eye, the snake squeezed the chicken to death before swallowing it whole.

Ryder tried to catch the snake but Lily pulled him back just in time. “Let’s tell father what we saw,” she said, still terrified. “Okay,” said Ryder. Just then, the snake slithered into a hole back to the moors. That was when the children saw that the fence had a huge hole in it. “What a big hole! Can father fix it?” Ryder asked. “Of course!” Lily said. When they told Father what they saw, he was shocked. “Oh my! You should have told me earlier,” he said. He quickly called a snake-catcher and returned. When the snake-catcher arrived, Father said to the children, “I’ll fix the fence while you rest.”

Finally, the snake was caught, and the fence was fixed. The children were glad they did the right thing.
